Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments:

4/16/07 - The interview was based on draft copy of proposed claim amendment faxed to the examiner on 4/13/07. Based on the proposed amendment, the examiner stated that there appeared to be no support in the present specification to recite "substantially free of water" with respect to the particulate material. The examiner also stated that there appeared to be no support in the present specification to recite "the particulate material being capable of supporting the article during three dimensional printing and suitable for being spread in a layer of dry particles having a thickness selected from a range of 25 to 125 microns" given that there appeared to be no disclosure of such thickness in the present specification. Applicants stated that there was support for such amendment in the specification. The examiner also questioned why applicants amended some of the claims to change "plaster" to "semihydrate of calcium sulfate" and what the difference is between these two compounds as well as the difference with gypsum. Applicants stated that such change was made to make clear that the composition is dry and to overcome prior art and that plaster, semihydrate of calcium sulfate, and gypsum are each different. For instance, semihydrate of calcium sulfate is reactive while gypsum is not. The examiner noted that claim 11 depended on cancelled claim 9.

4/18/07 - In response to the interview conducted 4/13/07, applicants faxed draft copy of proposed claim amendment to the examiner on 4/17/07. The interview was based on the faxed amendment.

The examiner noted that applicants clarified the difference between plaster, semihydrate of calcium sulfate, and gypsum but asked that evidence to support such explanation be provided especially in light of page 6, lines 12-23 of the present specification which appears to disclose that the terms plaster, semihydrate of calcium sulfate, and gypsum are equivalent and interchangeable.

The examiner stated that such amendment would overcome the 35 USC 112 rejections of record.
